

La Coruña Day 2

Sep 23, 2008 @ 19:48 43:22.10N 008:23.70W

The weather around the corner of Cape Finistere threatens near gales and high seas, so it was not a difficult decision to stay a while in La Coruña. The day has been spent catching up on sleep, mending one of the heads (John drew the short straw and armed with face mask and rubber gloves ...)

Safety checks were made and a number of other chores undertaken. Not a lot to report except to say that that La Coruña is an easy place to while away the time.

Nigel Backwith

Skipper

23 September 2008